

22nd October 2024

Sarah Beaumont-Smith writes for Partnerships Bulletin on 20 years of Renova and the important future role of the NHS LIFT model

This month Fulcrum company Renova celebrates 20 years of working in partnership with the NHS to deliver quality community health buildings across the North West.

To help mark the anniversary, Fulcrum CEO and Renova board member Sarah Beaumont-Smith has written for leading industry publication Partnerships Bulletin, looking back on 20 years of Renova, the key lessons learned, and the important role the NHS LIFT model can play in future investment in community health.

Sarah writes: "As we look to the future, there are often valuable lessons to be learned from the past - Renova's anniversary and 20+ years of the NHS LIFT model offer important signposts in how the Government and NHS can tackle the infrastructure challenges of tomorrow."

Read the full article at <https://www.partnershipsbulletin.com/article/1892444/back-future-20-years-renova-lessons-learned-future-health-investment>

Back to the Future: 20 years of Renova and the lessons learned for future health investment

The experience of one company can help point the direction for a government looking for a new approach to delivering healthcare in the community by Sarah Beaumont-Smith, CEO of Fulcrum Infrastructure Group, board member of Renova, and Chair of The LIFT Council 22 October 2024

